Context

The goal of the present workshop is to present the Med-Impact tool developed in the framework of the Mediterranean Solar Plan.

MED-Impact is a decision support tool dedicated to public and private decision-makers from southern and eastern Mediterranean countries in order to face the challenges related to the development of renewable energies.

The analyses proposed by MED-Impact are the following:

- Identify the gap between the costs of renewable energies and conventional ones
- Analyze macro and socio-economic effects of developing renewable energies
- Identify financial leverage enabling a competitiveness improvement of renewable energies
- Prioritize renewable energies projects and define national development priorities

Objectives

Participants will:

- Get acquainted to the med-impact tool for the evaluation of renewable energy projects and programs.
- Learn how to correctly interpret results in order to orientate decision-making.
